Composition of Course and Delivery Methods

Undergraduate degree courses at Leeds Conservatoire are delivered and supported through a range of teaching and learning strategies. Courses are made up of modules, which are elements of study that are taught and assessed separately. Each module has a clearly defined credit value and each year of study consists of a total of 120 credits. 100 hours of learning is expected for every 10 credits of the course, totalling 1200 hours of learning for each year of study. This equates to approximately 40 hours of study per week throughout the academic year.

Each module has scheduled hours for learning and teaching activities, as well as an expectation of independent learning from students via directed study outside of these allocated times. The ratio of learning and teaching activities to directed study varies across each module, year, and course.

Methods of Assessment

This combined study is assessed in a variety of ways to reflect the diversity of creative and professional practice. Assessment methods include musical portfolios, recordings, technical tests/performances, presentations or written work. The exact nature of assessments will depend on the Contextual Studies and Professional Studies module options chosen at Level 5 and Level 6, as well as the choice of project for the Final Project module at Level 6. Formal assessments tend to take place at the end of each semester or the end of the year. There are a handful of assignments with deadlines halfway through a semester.

Marks and Feedback

After you hand in an assignment, we aim to provide marks and feedback 20 working days after the deadline. Your feedback will reference the assessment criteria and detail positive aspects of your work as well as areas for improvement.

Not all feedback is written – for example, in your one-to-one or small group lessons, you get continuous feedback from your tutor. You will also receive regular feedback in ensembles, studio groups, seminars and tutorials. If you are unsure about how you are progressing, ask your tutor. You don't need to wait until you get written feedback from your assignment.

Additional Costs:

Indicative additional costs relating to the course (this is given as a guide only):

- Printing – in the majority of cases coursework and assessments are submitted online. However, students may be required to print coursework and assessments for specific offline submissions. Every student will receive printing credit at the start of term.
- Books/Music – the conservatoire's library has a wide range of resources, which include many core texts and materials.

However, students may be required to, or choose to, purchase their own copy of core text and other materials for particular modules.

- Equipment/Software purchase/maintenance – the conservatoires recording studios, mixing rooms and Mac labs run the latest industry standard DAW software and platforms (i.e. Pro Tools, Logic X, Ableton Live) alongside sample libraries such as Native Instruments Kontakt and East West. Students can complete their work for the course using these facilities. However, students may wish to buy their own recording equipment and software for convenience and access outside of the conservatoire (HE student discount is often available from manufacturers once enrolled). A good quality pair of studio headphones is a recommended initial purchase (approx. £50-£100).
- Instrument maintenance – this may vary depending on the instrument and whether or not the student is studying performance. Please note that students are expected to provide their own instrument.
- Course-related travel – students may be required to, or choose to, travel for gigs and performances, module placements and other course-related trips and visits. This may vary dependent on course, specialism (i.e. performance, composition, production) and the optional modules selected.
- Student Visas - international students will require appropriate student visas.
- Graduation – gown hire and photography are additional costs associated with graduation.
- External Storage Devices – the purchase of USB sticks or external hard drives are recommended for students to back up their work.
